Project Officer Responsibilities

Project Officers’ primary responsibility is to monitor grantee progress in meeting the requirements of the SORH, SHIP and Flex programs. POs are the main point of contact for grantees in their designated states. POs assist grantees by providing guidance related to grant program activities and the Federal grants process and responding to questions or requests from grantees.

Program Coordinator Responsibilities

In addition to serving as POs for SORH, SHIP and Flex programs, several ORHP staff also serve as Program Coordinators, providing leadership and performing administrative and oversight activities that contribute towards the overall success of a specific grant program. They are responsible for preparation of grant guidance and coordinate with the project officers for the review and funding processes. Project Officers are the main point of contact for all programs, but Program Coordinators provide assistance to POs if questions or clarification is needed.
